N. C. STATE CONVENTION.

NINTH DAY.

October 11, 1865.

The Convention was opened with prayer by the Rev. J. M. Atkinson, of the Presbyterian Church.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. Eaton, of Warren, from the Committee on "Limiting the power of the Legislature to increase the indebtedness of the State," reported "an ordinance concerning the debt of the State, hereafter to be contracted." [Provides that no law shall be passed to raise a loan of money on the credit of the State or to pledge the faith of the State for the payment of any debt, hereafter to be contracted, unless the bill for that purpose shall have been read three times on three several days before each house of the General Assembly, and agreed to by a majority of the whole number of members of both houses and unless the yeas and nays on the passage of the bill, shall have been entered on the journal.]

Mr. Manly, of Craven, from the committee to report what acts and ordinances of this Convention shall be referred to the people, made a report recommending the "ordinance declaring null and void the ordinance of May 20th, 1861, and the "ordinance prohibitlng slavery in the State" be referred to the people of the State.

Mr. Pool, of Bertie, from the Committee to whom the "Freedmen's Address" was referred, made the following report:

The subject matter of the Address and Petition could be more appropriately acted on by the Legislature, than by this Convention. But the importance of the subject, and the necessity for careful and considerate action are so great, that it may be proper for the Convention to take some initiatory steps towards its adjustment.

The former relations of master and slave having ceased in North Carolina, new and material rights and duties have supervened, which require corresponding legislation. A large class of the population, ignorant and poor, has been released from the stringent restrains of its late social and political position, and from its dependence upon the individual obligations of another class for its support, government and protection. And it now becomes the duty of the State to assume, and enact such laws as right and justice may require, and as may be most conductive to the general welfare.

The abolition of slavery has been adopted in good faith and with full determination that it shall not again exist in the State, either in form or substance. But the consequences of its former existence will inevitably effect the state of society for years to come. In consequence of his late condition as a slave, the freedman is ignorant of the operations of civil government, improvident of the future, careless of the restraints of public opinion and without any real appreciation of the duties and obligations impressed by the change in his relations to society. It is the interest of the white race, if he is to reside among us, to improve and elevate him by the enactment of such laws, conceived in a spirit of fairness and liberality, as will encourage him to seek his true welfare in honest industry, and the faithful discharge of the duties of his life. His intelligence and social condition must depend upon his industry and virtue.

Prejudices of a social character will probably forever exist. They are not confined to this State, nor to those states or countries where the institution of African slavery has been recognized; but have pervaded every society where the two races have been brought in contact. However unjust such prejudices may be deemed in theory, wisdom and prudence require that they should be so far recognized and respected by legislators, as to avoid rash attempts at measures that might serve only to inflame and strengthen them. Although we cannot hope for the entire correction of many of the evils under which we now labor yet time will materially modify them, and much may be safely trusted to its silent but effective operation. Hasty and inconsiderate action should be avoided; and above all things, should the delicate questions evolved from the new relations among us be kept from the arena of party politics.

There are, at present, in North Carolina, some real bonds of attachment between the two races. Families have been brought up and nurtured together under our former domestic relations—faithful servants have gained the esteem and confidence of their former masters, and possess and reciprocate tender feelings of affection from those, whose infancy they have watched, and in the pleasures and sports of whose childhood they have participated. Their services and sympathy in affliction are remembered and the dearest memories of the dead are associated and shared with them. From such ties, and from the common feelings of interest, justice and humanity, more is to be hoped for the improvement and welfare of impracticable claims for social and political rights, or from the aid of those whose interference is likely to be regarded with jealousy and met with resentment. We deplore the premature introduction of any schemes that may disturb the operations of their kindly feelings, or inflame the inherent social prejudice that exists against the colored race. The necessary legislation should be conceived in a spirit of perfect fairness and justice, and in full and unreserved conformity to existing relations. But it should be suited to the actual condition of the parties—and be aimed rather to their material and moral welfare and to the general peace and prosperity of the State, than to any theoretical scheme of social and political equality.

Those of our laws that are inapplicable to the changed relation of master and slave, and those that are in contravention of it should be repealed. And many new laws are now indispensibly necessary to meet the present condition of things. Those laws should be drawn with great care, and with the most mature consideration.

The committee therefore recommends that the Provisional Governor of the State be requested to appoint and constitute a commission of three gentlemen, eminent for legal ability to propose and submit to the consideration of the Legislature at its next session a system of laws upon the subject of freedmen—and to designate such laws or parts of laws now in force, as should be repealed in order to conform the statute of the State to the ordinance of this Convention abolishing the institution of slavery.

For the Committee.
JOHN POOL Chairman.

A resolution to constitute a Commission to prepare and report to the Legislature a code of laws on the subject of freedmen.

Resolved by the delegates of the people of North Carolina in Convention assembled, That a Commission of three persons be appointed and constituted by the Provisional Governor to prepare and report to the Legislature at its next session, a system of laws upon the subject of freedmen, and to designate such laws and parts of laws now in force, as should be repealed in order to conform the statutes of the State to the ordinance of this Convention abolishing the institution of slavery.

Upon motion of Mr. Caldwell of Burke, the rules were suspended, and five hundred copies of the report with the ordinance, were ordered to be printed.

RESOLUTIONS AND ORDINANCE.

The following resolutions and ordinance were introduced and lie over under the rule.

By Mr. Jones of Davidson,

An ordinance for the election of Clerks and Sheriffs. [Provides for the election of Sheriffs and Clerks at the same time and places that the election for members of the General Assembly shall take place, and that said officers shall have all the qualifications heretofore required, and that they shall enter upon the duties of their office as soon as the Provisional government expires, and hold said offices until further provided for by the Legislature.]

By Mr. Moore, of Wake: A resolution that certain parts of the report of the Public Treasurer be referred to a special committee. [Provides that so much of the Treasurer's Report as relates to the adoption of some summary remedy against parties refusing to deliver State property or witholding funds placed in their hands for State purposes, be referred to a special committee of three members.]

By Mr. McCoy, of Sampson: A resolution requesting the Governor to correspond with the President of the United States in regard to the citizens and officers confined by the military authorities in Wilmington and Raleigh, North Carolina.

Resolved by the delegates in Convention assembled, That Governor Holden be requested to correspond with the President of the United States in relation to Neill McGill and J. Leonidas McMillan, citizens of the county of Bladen and members of the Home Guard, who are now confined by the military authorities at Wilmington on the charge of killing a deserter before the surrender. Also with regard to Captain Wilson, who was a Confederate officer and is now confined in the city of Raleigh, and use his endeavors to have them turned over to the civil authorities for presentment indictment and trial in the respective counties where the offences are alleged to have been committed

UNFINISHED BUSINESS.

The "ordinance declaring what laws and ordinances are in force and for other purposes," came up as the unfinished business.

The section in regard as slaves and now emancipated, who cohabit together as men and wife, shall be deemed to have been lawfully married from the time of their cohabitation and the issue reported to be born of such cohabitation shall be deemed to have been born in lawful wedlock and legitimate from their birth, was under discussion, and the careful and learned debate in which Messrs. Moore of Wake, Phillips of Orange, Wright of New Hanover, Howard of Wilson, Winston, of Franklin, Conigland of Halifax, McGehee of Caswell and Dockery of Richmond, evinced not only much legal research, but great interest for the freedmen. The section was amended in several particulars, and was finally stricken out by a vote of sixty-eight to forty-two, upon the suggestion of Mr. Phillips of Orange and the report of Mr. Pool of Bertie in regard to freedmen, to refer the whole matter of a "freedman's code" to commission.

The ordinance as amended passed its second reading.

Several delegates gave notice that upon the third reading they would offer amendments, and the ordnance will be reported as finally passed.

The resolutions (heretofore reported,) asking for a general amnesty of the President of the United States, for all the citizens of North Carolina not yet pardoned, were passed.

An ordinance introduced by Mr. Settle, entitled "An ordinance recognizing the just debts of North Carolina and prohibiting the payment of all public debts created and incurred in aid of the rebellion," with the adverse report of the Committee on Finance to which it has referred came upon their second reading.

Mr. Mebance of Alamance, moved to lay them on the table.

Upon this motion Mr. Thompson of Bertie called for the yeas and nays.

And the motion did not prevail.

Yeas 51—nays 62.

Mr. Caldwell of Guilford, moved to adjourn until 10 o'clock to-morrow.

Mr. Settle called the yeas and nays and the Convention adjourned.

Yeas 59—nays 55.

THE UNION BANNER

SALISBURY, N. C., OCTOBER 13, 1865.

J. J. STEWART, EDITOR

Raleigh,—New Berne.—the Railroads.

Some ten days since, "we made a flying trip to Raleigh—thence to New Berne—and returned. At Raleigh we "struck Ile"—at the inimitable Exchange Hotel, Enjoyed the many good things with which the accomodating proprietors keep their table so sumptuously furnished. We heard a good deal of talk in the Convention—was not very well pleased with the deportment of some of the members of that body—left and, went to New Berne; found it quite a flourishing place; Saw a good many things new, not strange; had a good time, generally. Called on Dr. Foard, the indefatigable Commission Merchant and forwarding agent.—He was doing a driving business in his line. Mr. Foard, however, was not in, but Mr. P. A. Brown, formerly of this place, and who is by the by, a gentlemen of business capacity and tact that render him an accession to any mercantile house.

The Railroads, we found in much better condition than when we passed over them in June. The North Carolina Railroad, under the supervision of that incomparable Railroad man, Mr. E. Wilkes, is now in excellent running order, and promises soon to be the great thoroughfare of travel between the North and South.

The Military road from Raleigh to Morehead City, is also, in elegant running order, under good, efficient and obliging officers of the U. S. A., among whom is the courteous, gallant, and noble Capt. W. W. McNulty, whom we found to be worthy of more compliment than we, here have space to give him. Long may he live and prosper. We come home at the earnest solicitation of our talented "pro tem" who had begun to grow weary of editorial responsibilities, but whom, we doubt not, many of our readers were sorry to give up.

Secession is dead. It fell all covered with dust and horrible with blood. Scarcely a decent burial was given its mortal remains. No one to do it honor, it sunk beneath the mighty power of the sword and popular indignation its audacity had engendered. Far deep in the undecked grave it sleeps the eternal sleep of death, with but few, if any, to sing the praises of the fallen giant. No resurrection morn awaits this marvellous child of destiny, once loved and caressed by women, honored and cheered by men, and admired by an astonished world. Around the sad silent purlieu where rests the Sampson-like form the cimmerian shad is so dark and thick no eye can penetrate it—no foot can trace the hidden path that leads where the hero is buried. So be it. Here we would let it rest. We would say nothing to disturb its lonely quiet; nor say ought to wound the feelings of those who loved, cheered, and admired the boast of deluded minds yet honest hearts. We would simply adopt for our moto, the old latin proverb—De mortuis, nil nisi bonum—But not so with a few of our contemporaries.—They will call up the sad memories of the past and keep alive the smouldering cinders which yearn to die, and be lost in oblivion.

Now we say, emphatically, there can no good come of this course. We think, the duty of the press of the South, at least, should be to coultivate friendly relations among our entire people—forget the past, and labor for the future grandeur of our great Republic. Let us have no chafing—no censure—no crimination and recriminotion. We can see no patriotism and less propriety, in calling men traitors. The Government will determine this question in due time. As well call the whole South traitors, for they are all equally guilty. We have been led to these remarks by the following extract from the Standard:

"The election for members of the Legislature and for members of Congress, has been fixed by the Convention on the second Thursday of next month. The Legislature to be thus elected will be of the most important character. We advise the people in the most earnest terms to look well to the candidates who may present themselves for their suffrages. Let them vote for none but well-tried Union men. Let them oppose the "straitest sect" and set all aspirers; and let them guard especially against wolves in sheeps clothing, who were anxious to continue the rebel State governments over our people, or who were disposed to apologize for such traitors as Vance and Davis.—The people are entitled to straight out Union members to represent them, and they will be greatly in their own light if they do not elect such men. Let them pay no regard to professions, but look to acts. 'The tree is known by its fruits.'"

We agree with the Standard that the people should elect, to the Legislature, and to Congress, men who are the least objectionable. But we do not believe that the government desires to dictate to the people whom they shall and whom they shall not elect. In this case, the election would be a farce, which the government do not design it shall be. In regard to the election of "straight-out Union" men, the "straitest sect" &c., we would say, that we hope, there are no other sort in the South now. At any rate, the large majority of our people are yearing, anxiously yearning for the restoration of the Union and they will vote for no candidate who is not pledged to use his influence to this end. Then Mr. Standard do not continue to inflame the passions of the sections, and especially of Southern people, by calling men, whom we all delighted, once, to honor, traitors.

We hope the Standard will take our remarks to heart, as they are not meant in any factious spirit.

GENERAL NEWS.

Pennsylvania Election.

Philadelphia, Oct. 10.—Election returns so far as received indicate that the State has gone republican.

The vote in this city is the largest ever cast, except at the Presidential election in 1860. McMichael, Union candidate for mayor, has been elected by over five thousand majority.

Hartranft is undoubtedly chosen Auditor General and Campbell Surveyor General. They leave Philadelphia with over seven thousand majority, which will be difficult to overcome.

Boston, Oct. 11.—The Republican convention of the sixth district, which met this afternoon, nominated Maj. Gen. Banks for Congress.

Ohio Election.

Cincinnati, Oct. 11.—Maj. Gen. S. S. Cox, the Union candidate for Governor, has carried Ohio by twenty-five thousand majority. This is another anti negro suffrage triumph.

Release of Distinguished Confederates.

Washington, Oct. 12.—Alex. H. Stephens, late Vice President of the late Confederacy; Trenholm, the last rebel Secretary of the Treasury; John A. Campbelle, Confederate Assistant Secretary of War and Ex-Governor Clark, of Mississppi, having applied to the President for pardons, he has ordered that they be released from close confinement on their respective paroles to appear at such time and place as he may designate, to answer such charges as he may direct to be preferred against them. It is further stipulated that the parties are to remain within their respective States until further orders.

Pardons have also been signed by the President in behalf of the members of the South Carolina seceding convention and forwarded to Gov. Perry for distribution.

Davis and Other State Prisoners.

The Petersburg Express of yesterday says: "A gentleman was in this city Tuesday, who saw (but was not permitted to converse with them) on Monday last, Mr. Jefferson Davis, Clement C. Clay, and Mr. John Mitchel. The two former appeared cheerful and contented, but the latter seemed to be sad and gloomy. He states that the prisoners are all very comfortably quartered, and are daily furnished with the very best diet which the Norfolk and Baltimore markets afford. Save the restraints imposed by confinement, the prisoners are as comfortably situated at this time as they or their friends could desire.

Washington, Oct. 10.—President Johnson, in addressing the returned colored troops, to-day, whom he received at the executive Mansion, made a brief speech in which he said, liberty did not consist in being idle and worthless or in doing as they pleased. There must be submission to the law, without regard to color. Liberty consisted in the glorious privilege to work, each pursuing the avocations of peace, industry and economy, and to enjoy the products of one's own labor. Virtue, honesty and intelligence was the standard to be observed as their ruling principle in life. If the experiment of taking the four millions of blacks, lately freed, and incorporating them if our system, did not work harmonious, then they must be a separate or distinct people. If the laws of Providence required that they should separate, Providence would point out the way they were to take the land of their inheritance, if there was one before them.

The Washington Republican says:

Mrs. Ingraham, sister of Robt. E. Lee, was at the Provost Marshal's office of the District of Columbia, this morning, and Provost Marshal Capt. Russell administered to her the oath of allegiance.

Jeff. Thompson tells the editor of the Louisville Journal, that the only person in the South who wish to do any more fighting, are those who didn't do any when they had a chance.

The bells of the Charleston churches were all taken to Columbia at the time of Sherman's raid. Only three broken ones remain; the rest are supposed to have been stolen.

A difficulty occurred in Memphis a few days ago between colored troops and the police. Several of the latter were badly injured, and a number of the former are reported killed.

Fanny Jackson, young negro woman, of Washington, D. C., graduated from the classical course of Oberlin College at the late Commencement.—She is the first female colege graduate of African descent.

Belgium has been visited by a waterspout of extraordinary violence. It occured in the neighborhood of Leige, and has spread ruin far and wide. The accompanying gale caught people up in the air and dashed them to the ground, cut off the tops of some large trees, and felled many other trees to the ground, stopped railway trains and overthrew houses, and was attended by thunder and floods of rain. Altogether it was one of the most disastrous storms that has ever visited the country.

New York, Oct. 9th, 1865.—Cotton firm; flour dull; and the sales of wheat unimportant. Whisky dull and pork firm at 37½.

[CORRESPONDENCE OF THE 'BANNER.']

What I See, Hear and Think as I go Northward.

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 10th, 1865.

EDITOR BANNER:

I leave for Baltimore to-morrow morning. In leaving Richmond I have many regrets. Every spot to me is sacred ground. I rode to Hollywood to-day and paid a pilgrimage to the tomb of Wheat. When I come back I shall make arrangements that even amidst winter seasons, fresh flowers shall daily bloom above his grave. Hollywood is indeed, Holy ground to me, because my best friend, Wheat, with the casomate of his immortal soul, consecrates the ground.

This town seems to be reviving. If any evidence be required, it is furnished by the Spotwood Hotel, where I am stopping. Here in this very House I have dined with Hood, Wigfall, Jeff. Thompson, and other celebraties. I have dined one day here with friends, and the next I have followed their bodies to the grave. In the parlor I have set under the influence of beauty and talent for many an hour, and every portion of the Hotel is redolent with some memory of the unfortunate past, of the past rendered sacred by the sufferings of ourselves and people. I hope that Richmond will soon be returned to its pristine beauty and strength, and that the city of the hills will recover all her former greatness and purity.

Here now at the Spotwood I meet old friends, men who stood with me amidst the fire and smoke of Gettysburg and Manassas, and here also can be found the finest society in the South. We would earnestly recommend to our readers this hotel. They will find accommodating clerks, a plentiful table, and that rarest of all things now, an obedient servant.

Yours, &c.,

"THE PRINCE."

North Carolina Mutual Life Insurance Company.

THE following statement of the condition of the N. C. Mutual Life Insurance Company will show that after all the vicissitudes of the war, the Company is still strong, and merits the continuance of the patronage heretofore so generously bestowed.

Assets.

Premium Notes liable to assessment,	$129,198
Bonds of solvent individuals	23,004
		$152,202

Liabilities.

Losses allowed up to January, 1, 1865	$35,249
Excess of assets over liabilities	$116,953

To meet the above liabilities, the Directors have ordered the collection of the individual bonds, and an assessment of 20 per cent. on the premium notes, which should yield

Bonds	$23,004
Assessments	25,839
		$48,843
Losses		35,248
An excess of		$3,694

Sufficient to cover all deficiencies.

If the Company shall be patronized by the public as before the war, there will be the annual profits in cash and premium notes which may be added to the assets now in hand, for the payment of liabilities.

Nearly all the above liabilities would have been extinguished but for the refusal of claimants to receive the currency in circulation at the time of the losses. They cannot reasonably complain of some delay. It will be remembered that the premium notes are the accumulations of notes given by insurers for one half their annual premiums, which the Company had the right to require to be paid in cash. On the face of the note the insurer promises to pay whenever requested by the Directors, and all payments on assessments will be so much added to the sum insured, by diminishing to that amount the premium note to be deducted in case of loss. Many insurers pay the whole premium in cash as a matter of choice. It is believed that the losses may be paid by the first instalment of ten per cent added to the contemplated profits; but it is the firm intention of the directors to meet all their liabilities as promptly as the condition of the country will admit, even if to do so, it may be necessary to order the collection of all the premium notes CHAS. LOCAL.

AN IRREPRESSIBLE TRADER.

The military authorities in this place "got after" our well known fellow townsman, T. J. F., who is as nearly an indomnitable business man as can be "skeered up" in these parts. Business—trading—is his business; and he don't care a "red" for many other things; and is therefore naturally impatient under restraints, and not very complacent towards those who frustrate his schemes. Some of the military commanders, of both armies, in their passage through this region have more or less disturbed T's. pecuniary prospects, so that first and last he suffered heavily. He has a keen remembrance of his losses, and upon occasion, sometimes vents his displeasure in terms more pungent than is agreeable to ears polite, against them all, indiscriminately. He took such occasion day before yesterday, at the Express office, in that instance giving it to Gen. Sherman and his troops, right and left, for burning a lot of his cotton down about Columbia. By some means his language reached the ears of the Provost Marshal, and he was summoned to appear at Head Quarters.—The case was made out against him without trouble, and he was accordingly, much to his annoyance, sentenced to prison, and to a fine. It was a severe bore to T., who cares about as much for politics as a politician cares for consistency. But true to his profession, even in prison, he made a trade by which he paid his fine and cleared sixty dollars! This, he thought, was a passable day's work under the circumstances. If there is any one who can beat it, let him report himself to T. and he can get a hat.

NEW FIRM.

We offer an apology for the many mistakes which occurred in the advertisement of Messrs. Bradshaw, Brown, and Co.; and we would again say that these gentlemen are of the highest character, and deserve success. Mr. J. D. Brown, one of the firm, has been long in business at Salisbury, and there is no gentleman who has a higher reputation for integrity and real worth. We hope them success.

Attention Wood Haulers.

Many of our subscribers have promised to pay their subscription to the Banner in wood. We hope, all such, will think of us. Now is the time to bring in wood for the winter. We are out.

A Touching Appeal in Behalf of Jefferson Davis.

The following eloquent and pathetic letter has been addressed to President Johnson by the ladies of Lynchburg, Virginia.

To His Excellency, Andrew Johnson
President of the United States:

Sir—We, the ladies of Lynchburg, Virginia, worthy daughters, we trust, of the Old Dominion, present ourselves as petitioners before you. We come, Mr. President, with no unmeaning words, nor to urge aught that has not already been said in behalf of him for whom this petition has been presented, but with hearts burdened with a sense of the solemnity of our cause, we ask for mercy for the distinguished prisoner Jefferson Davis, the beloved and honored President of the late Confederate States. He has only done what thousands in this sunny land have done. He was their chosen leader—the representative of principles they deemed sacred. Will you not be as magnanimous as you are powerful, and accord to him a full, free pardon, and return him to the bosom of his wretched family? In all ages of the world the voice of woman has been heard above the storm of passion and of hate; let it now prevail, and bring with it mercy for him who, when power was in his hands, showed himself merciful.

"Mercy is an attribute of God himself,
An earthly power doth then show likest God's,
When Mercy seasons Justice.
We do pray for mercy;
And that same prayer doth teach us all to render
The deeds of mercy."

We, the women of the South, have been the greatest sufferers by this desolating war. Our beautiful, our brave have fallen, never to gladden our hearts again. We sent them forth with blessings on them and bade them battle for what they honestly believed was their inalienable—right that of self-government. If we have, in your judgment, erred, Mr. President, have we not suffered enough to expiate any fault?—Oh, will you not pour the balm of mercy on our crushed and bleeding hearts; listen to the wail that finds an echo in every true woman's heart; grant our prayer, and set the captive free!

Sir, when the hour of death comes, and it must come to all, this deed of mercy will stand by you as an angel and brighten your passage along the dark valley of death. You will have the approbation of the world, and the testimony of your own conscience which will bring you joy and peace, and your petitioners will ever pay, etc.

Mrs. Judge D. A. WILSON,
Mrs. JOHN A. SPEED,
Mrs. General RODES,
Mrs. S. H. BOCOCK,
Mrs. WILLIAM R. MOSBY.
And three hundred others.

General Howard's Tour.

General Howard, Commissioner o the Freedmen's Bureau, who is travers ing the South for observation and amelioration of the condition of the freedmen, made a speech to them in Lynchburg on Sunday before last, at the African Church, in which he clearly set forth the nature and object of the Bureau of which he is the head; the incentives which they have to improve their moral and material well being; the duty and destiny of men to work, saying that he himself had worked all his life, and had still to work, and enjoyed it; the necesity of their contracting with their late masters or others, and of faithfully carrying out their contracts; cautioned them against exaggerated and illusory ideas of freedom—that it brought liberty but care; advised them to pray for guidance in finding out what is right; warned them that vicious idleness would surely end in ruin; said that if after all the lot of this life was too hard, they should and might so live as to merit and enjoy a better life above. Especially dwelt on the false and cruel delusion which had led them to hope that the lands of the South would be parceled out among them at Christmas. The Government had no lands to give, nor any right to take them from the owners; that if they (the freedmen) had lands, they would soon be cheated out of them by sharpers, &c. The General also denounced the advice of certain mischievous persons such as—"If a white man pushes you off a sidewalk, push him off too; If he strikes you, strike him back again," &c. &c. This, said he, is all wrong; the meek and gentle example of the great Christian Master, who returned good for evil, was the duty of all men. &c, &c., concluding with an assurrance of the firm protection of all their rights by the Government.

Both the freedmen and the citizens were delighted, apparently, with the address and deportment of Gen. Howard.

Georgia has sent a State Commissioner to Europe to encourage foreign emigration to the State. Col. A. P. Wetter has been selected for the mission.

AGENTS WANTED

FOR OUR

Standard HISTORY of the War.

Containing a full, authentic and reliable account of the "great conflict," from its commencement to its close. Complete in one very large volume, of over 1,000 pages: containing reading matter equal to three large royal octavo volumes, splendidly illustrated with over 125 fine portraits of Generals and battle scenes.

This is just the book the people want. It presents a rare chance for Agents. Teachers, energetic young men, and especially returned and disabled officers and soldiers, in want of profitable employment, will find it particularly adapted to their condition. This work has no rival as a candid, lucid, complete, authentic and reliable history of the war. Send for circulars and see our terms. Address JONES BROTHERS & CO., 148 West Fourth street, Cincinnati, Ohio.
